Richco Company Vehicle Policy

Policy Brief & Purpose

Our company vehicle policy describes our guidelines for using company vehicles. A “company vehicle” is any type of vehicle our company assigns to employees to support their transportation needs for their jobs. Company vehicles belong to our company, and we want to make sure our employees use them properly.

Scope

This policy refers to Employee who signs this form, who is authorize for the use of a company vehicle as part of their daily job duties.

Employees are permitted to drive the company vehicle for work purposes only. Travel to and from the office and or work location is the responsibility of the employee in their own vehicle.

We retain the right to revoke or assign company vehicles at our discretion.

Prerequisites to Drive a Company Vehicle

Our employees are only allowed to drive a company vehicle if they:

- Have a valid driver’s license.
- Have a clean driving record for at least 3 years. This means they must not have been involved in an “at fault” vehicle accident or arrested on charges of violating vehicle and traffic laws (e.g., driving under the influent of drugs or alcohol).

Employees will need to submit a copy of their driver’s license prior to the use or our company vehicles. It is essential to advise us of any changes to your driving license status throughout your employment.

Driver's Obligations

We expect employees who drive company vehicles to follow rules. They should:

- Drive safe, sober, and not under the influence of drugs.
- Respect traffic laws and fellow drivers.
- If applicable, wear glasses or contacts when driving.
- Document any driving-related expenses, like fuels and tolls.
- Check the vehicle regularly to ensure gas, tire pressure and all car fluids are at appropriate levels.
- Report any damages or problems with their assigned vehicle to management as soon as possible.
- Avoid double-parking, blocking entrances and engaging in other traffic violations that may result in fines.

If employees have their driver's licenses suspended or revoked, they must immediately inform management. We'll reassign their company vehicle until they become eligible to drive in accordance with our policy.

Employees who are fatigued and/or sick should avoid driving if they feel their driving ability is impaired. If sickness occurs during a business trip that requires the use of a company vehicle, employees should take regular breaks while driving or ask management for overnight accommodations, if needed.

Employees Are Not Allowed To:

- Smoke inside of a company vehicle.
- Lease, sell or lend a company vehicle.
- Violate distracted driving laws by using a phone or texting while driving.
- Use a company vehicle to teach someone how to drive.
- Leave the company car unlocked, unattended or parked in dangerous areas.
- Allow unauthorized people to drive a company vehicle unless an emergency mandates it.

Accidents

If employees are involved in an accident with a company vehicle, they should contact management immediately, so we can get in touch with our insurance provider. Employees shouldn't accept responsibility or guarantee payment to another party in an accident without company authorization. Employees should follow legal guidelines for exchanging information with other drivers and call local police if accidents are serious.

If the accident the employee is involved in is deemed "at fault" of the employee, the employee will be responsible for the insurance excess payment.

Our Company's Obligations

We want to ensure that all our employees are safe at work and preserve our company's legality.

For these reasons, we'll:

- Make sure vehicles are safe to drive before assigning them to employees.
- Schedule periodical maintenance to ensure vehicles remain in good condition.
- Provide a copy of this policy to all employees who are assigned vehicles.
- Insure vehicles with a reliable insurance provider.

Drivers are responsible for bringing in their company vehicles for any maintenance our company schedules.

We keep records of our fleet with manufacturing date and mileage. We will retire any car that's deemed too old or too high in mileage.

We Are Not Responsible For:

- Paying fines employees accumulate while driving company vehicles that they are responsible for (e.g., for driving too fast).
- Bailing out employees arrested while driving company vehicles.

Protecting The Environment & Saving Costs

Vehicles are harmful to our environment and costly to use. We'll try to provide employees with eco-friendly vehicles when possible. We also expect our employees to use their assigned company vehicles sensibly, considering environmental impacts. Examples of instances when using company vehicles isn't necessary:

- When public transport is easily accessible and faster.
- When business trips are far enough to warrant use of train or plane.
- When employees can complete a task without driving.

Disciplinary Consequences

Employees will face disciplinary consequences if they don’t follow this policy’s rules. For minor offenses, like allowing unauthorized people to drive a company vehicle or receiving more than two fines, we may issue reprimands and ultimately revoke the company vehicle.

We may terminate an employee and/or take legal action as needed for more serious offenses. That can include leasing out a company car for personal financial gain or causing an accident while driving intoxicated.
